City Resumes Normal Aspect—French Takes Trenches in Vosges—Strasbourg Attacked From Air.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, August 2.—The armies of Germany and Austria are being held by the Russians to the west of Warsaw, but they are making progress elsewhere on the eastern front, according to official statements from Berlin and Vienna, their most determined attack evidently being that directed against Wyszow, 35 miles northeast of Warsaw.

Pursuing their policy of cutting the communications of Grand Duke Nicholas, heavy German forces are attacking the railroad connecting the main Warsaw-Petrograd line with Ostrojek.

Conditions Good.
The latest dispatch from Warsaw, coming from a correspondent of the Associated Press and dated July 31, shows that the conditions there are better than indicated in latest direct dispatches to the London newspapers, which were sent July 29.

In the latest information the Associated Press states that the people are returning to their homes and that the life of the capital is resuming a normal aspect, although officials have made preparations for the expected evacuation. The French and Belgian consulates have been placed in the hands of the American consul.

Fighting in West.
In the west fighting is again in progress in the British section of the battle front and there has been resumption of infantry activity with the French admitting that the Germans have captured some trenches in the Argonne and the Marne-Thiers district, but claiming that counter attacks have won a portion of the lost ground.

In the Vosges mountains the French troops took several trenches after inflicting heavy losses on the defenders, states Paris.

The record of British submarine activity given out by the British admiralty last night was supplemented today by a Petrograd official report which announces that an English submarine sank a large German transport in the Baltic.

Letters from Italian officers at the front, to friends in Rome, dwell upon heavy losses to Austrians, caused by burning down of heavy rocks into ravines and valleys where the Austrians had taken up their positions. Some ten thousand men had been killed in this manner, it is declared. In one group of trenches, crushed to death by falling rocks.

Russians Determined.
Petrograd, August 3.—Michael V. Rodzianko today was re-elected president of the Russian Duma, 146 to 42. On the conclusion of the debate on the Russian Duma, the Russian Duma, according to the unanimous decision of a resolution declaring it to be the empire's unshakable determination not to conclude peace before a victor, was a complete and unqualified willingness of entire population for creation of fresh means for continuing the struggle.

Airships Busy.
Paris, August 3.—A flotilla of Anglo-French aeroplanes today flew over the German city of Strassburg and dropped twenty-five bombs, according to a dispatch from Geneva to the Havas News Agency. The extent of damage caused has not yet been ascertained. Strassburg is located on the Alsace-Lorraine, and lies eighty miles southeast of the German forest of Metz.

Poisoners Shot.
Berlin, August 3.—A dispatch from the German press today to the Associated Press says that a soldier, while guarding British prisoners of war who were working as garden hands, suddenly was attacked by two of the men. The guard shot and killed one of his assailants and wounded the other.

Tells of Horrors.
Paris, Aug. 3.—M. B. Varadate, a member of the committee of the Armenian social democratic party, writing to L. Humanite, says the committee have received word that Turks, after massacring all the male population in the region of Brink, Turkish Armenia, assembled 8000 women and children and drove them to the banks of the Tigris, where they shot them and threw their bodies into the river.

Near Ypres.
Amsterdam, via London, August 3.—Heavy fighting is in progress on British front near Ypres. According to telegrams from Courtrai, Belgium, the boom of great guns and mine explosions were audible there for hours, quickly followed by a steady stream of wounded men from the vicinity of Hooge. Most of the casualties were result of shrapnel wounds.

GERMAN ALLIANCE HAS "WET" VIEWS DELEGATES SHOW

National Body Delegates in Session at San Francisco Show Opposition to Prohibition.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Francisco, August 3.—Opposition to national prohibition was expected to take some tangible form today in the shape of a definite program of the second day's business session of the National German alliance of the United States. Dr. C. J. Hexamer, Philadelphia, president of the organization, said resolutions dealing with the subsequent prohibition would occupy the prominent part of the convention which is concluded Saturday.

The report of the secretary, Adolph Timm, Philadelphia, recommending that prohibition be opposed, was taken by some of the five hundred and fifty delegates to formulate a plan of action. It was indicated that the alliance was not opposed to prohibition itself, but the methods of gaining it were not likely to stamp out the drink habit. Education, it was contended, was a better means of moderating the consumption of liquor.

Perpetuation of German ideals by Germans who had become naturalized Americans was advocated last night by Dr. Hexamer, who reminded the delegates that their first duty was to their adopted country, but at the same time to preserve the ideals of the fatherland and transmit them to their children.

The fortune of war, its glory and its grief, are vividly suggested by this pictured meeting of two famous French and British commanders, General Gouraud and General Sir Ian Hamilton, at Seddul-Bahr, near which place most of the Dardanelles fighting has occurred. General Hamilton visited the French commander-in-chief to inform him of an important gain that afternoon near Krithia. Two days later General Gouraud was so badly wounded that it was necessary to amputate his right arm.

THREE MORE YEARS NECESSARY TO END WAR WITH GERMANY

U. S. Steel Head Says Fighting Nations Are Preparing for This Lengthy Duration of Strife.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Aug. 3.—The allies are preparing to continue the war for at least three more years if necessary, according to William Ellis Corey, former president of the United States Steel Corporation, who arrived here today from Bordeaux.

Mr. Corey said it was problematical as to whether the allies would like to see the United States enter the war, but he thought they would rather have the financial than military aid of this country. He added Russia would require some time to reorganize and much material, especially manufactured iron, was needed in that country now. This condition, he said, would make good business in the United States.

Mr. Corey and his wife went to France four months ago. They have been staying at their chateau near Paris, where Mr. Corey opened his home to convalescent soldiers.

Pope's Newspapers Commends Modified Tone of Statements of War Anniversary By Belligerents.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome, August 2, via Paris, August 3.—Discussing the many messages and statements issued in various countries on the first anniversary of the war, the Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, says:

"Reading these foreign messages, we are pleased to note that the language adopted has been modified in tone so that in a sense it is more pacific or more humane. In place of inexorable war cries and proposals to annihilate the enemy there begins to be substituted a more humane accent, although circumscribed, we see in this the possibility of a discussion leading to peace. It is a most comforting sign, although very weak as yet."

It was stated that in event of the failure of the peace move the strike would begin tomorrow. The mayor's council hopes to be able to submit a satisfactory peace plan today.

LAKE BOAT SAFETY TEST BOARD NAMED

City of Chicago Named Committee to Pass on Stability of Excursion Steamers.

REDFIELD RESUMES EASTLAND INQUIRY TODAY AT CHICAGO

Secretary Cases Unsubpoenaed Witnesses to Stand to Testify Regarding Boats.

Chicago, August 3.—Secretary Redfield today resumed his inquiry into Eastland disaster and avoided conflict to federal court by calling witnesses who have not been subpoenaed by Federal Grand jury.

Edward C. Gillette, of Washington, superintendent of naval construction of light house service, department of commerce was the first witness called. He said he had examined the Eastland and was of the opinion that the estimated load it carried at the time of the accident was not too great for the boat, if the water ballast had been properly banded. The witness admitted in reply to questions by Lieutenant Governor O'Hara that the water ballast vessel had capsized at her dock in Milwaukee in 1912. Gillette said the near ports on the Eastland were not more than fourteen inches above the waterline, and a small list would bring the gangway awash.

He was asked: "Do you think an inspector should license a boat for more passengers than the vessel can carry safely in the most severe storm?" "That is a matter of the inspectors' judgment."

The bottom has dropped out of the lake excursion business as the result of the disaster to the Eastland, according to H. H. Wright, general manager of Goodrich Transit Company.

Three big excursion steamers have been withdrawn from the service and ship owners are said to be foremost in urging safety tests which will restore confidence in lake boats.

JUDGE BEN LINDSEY PRONOUNCED GUILTY

Contempt of Court is Imposed on Juvenile Judge by District Judge Perry.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Denver, Colo., Aug. 3.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the Denver juvenile court was found guilty of contempt of court by District Judge John A. Perry. Sentence was deferred pending Judge Lindsey's return from the east.

The contempt case resulted from the judge's refusal to reveal on the witness stand, what he claimed was a confidential communication of Neal Wright, aged twelve, whose testimony in the criminal court had much to do with the acquittal of his mother.

Neal Wright, charged with the murder of her husband, Lindsey and John A. Wright was shot while seeking to gain entrance to his home on April 18. Mrs. Wright, charged with the killing of Neal Wright, testified at the trial that not his mother, fired the fatal shot and it was accidental. It is claimed that Neal, previously, had told a different story to Judge Lindsey.

The juvenile judge declared the boy's confidential communication was privileged and refused to testify. Mrs. Wright was acquitted June 10. In the meantime Judge Lindsey has been cited for contempt.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Belleville, Ill., August 3.—James H. Thomas, Sr., the negro mayor of Brooklyn, Illinois, a negro settlement, and four negro policemen of the town were found guilty of murder in criminal court here today and sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary.

The men were charged with killing Robert Jackson, a policeman under a former administration. The trouble grew out of an election row. Partisans of Thomas and Robert J. Cole, former mayor, clashed on the street on the night of May 7. Louis Barryman, a member of the Thomas faction, also was slain.

The prosecutor charged that the defendant had conspired to start a quarrel and then beat Jackson. The defendant asserted Jackson was killed while resisting arrest.

SELECTING THE JURY TO TRY YEGG SAWYER PAL OF HENRY STARR

Third Trial of Alleged Robber Should Open Shortly With Completion of Jurors Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chandler, Okla., August 3.—Selection of a jury to try Claude Sawyer, charged with being a member of the Starr band, which robbed two banks at Stroud, Oklahoma, last month, was to be completed today when the third trial in connection with the Stroud raid was resumed. Henry Starr, leader of the band, yesterday pleaded guilty and was sentenced to twenty-five years in prison. Sawyer, his counsel has announced, will attempt to establish an alibi.

Henry Starr, last of the Starr gang of bandits, was charged with the robbery of two banks of Stroud, Oklahoma, into which he led his gang last March and took an aggregate of $5,000. Starr was wounded after the robbery and four of his men—Claude Sawyer, Claude Maxfield, Charles Johnson and Louis Maxfield—were captured and are awaiting trial.

Henry Starr's life has been full of bank robberies, engagements in the foot-carrying, battling with posses seeking to arrest him, aided in quelling a jail outbreak and unsuccessfully tried following a pardon by President Roosevelt in 1903.

Henry Starr was born in Fort Gibson, Oklahoma, December 2, 1873. His father, George Starr, was a respectable, full-blooded Cherokee Indian. His mother, Mary Scott, was a quarter blood Cherokee. Of the three children, Henry was the youngest. He attended a Cherokee National school until he was eleven years old. In 1891 Starr began work on a ranch near his home. A horse was stolen. Starr was arrested, taken to Fort Smith and confined in jail. In two days he was acquitted.

Some time later, while on his way through Nowata to the Indian Territory, Starr was asked by a stranger to carry a grip in his buggy and drove on. United States marshals stopped him and found the grip contained whiskey.

"They took me to jail at Muskogee," said Starr. "There I was only a kid and father and mother had brought me up to think it was an awful dishonor to be in jail. I was innocent. When I came out I felt I might as well be dead as disgraced. I came out with blood in my eye."

Starr, with a companion, committed his first robbery in July, 1892, holding up the express office at Nowata. Starr was arrested, and jumped his bond. He returned to Nowata in less than a week.

FRENCH COMMISSION GIVES FINDINGS ON GERMAN ATROCITIES

Detailed Account of Many Inhuman Acts Charged to Germany, Handled to President or Cabinet.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Aug. 3.—The commission president of the French court of accounts, charged by Georges Clemenceau, has presented to Premier Viviani the final reports of its investigation into the acts of the part of German soldiers in violation of the laws of war.

The report contains 12,000 words, and gives in detail the evidence gathered against the use by German troops of military and civilian prisoners as shields against the bullets of French troops, as well as the employment by troops of Emperor William of cartridges in which the bullets were covered with oil to cause more serious wounds, split bullets and other bullets cut to make them more rending. The report cites or refers to many other atrocities committed by German soldiers, including the killing of wounded enemy and take no more prisoners. Evidence confirming the results and circulation of this order was obtained from German prisoners belonging to the 11th and 142nd regiments.

The report also contains evidence of the massacre of French soldiers as a result of this order, as well as the massacre of wounded men after the battle of Bethune in Belgium. It represents the allegations of many individual soldiers who declare they saw their wounded comrades put to death by a rifle shot, a revolver shot, the thrust of a bayonet or a blow from the butt of a musket by German soldiers. Subaltern officers and officers. Some of the French witnesses testified that they themselves had been objects of such attacks after having been wounded. The report devotes considerable space to allegations of inhumanity of the Germans to prisoners of war, which it says, is proved by the evidence of the victims. Many prisoners of war have been shot while the skulls of others were crushed by blows from the butts of muskets. At St. Die, thirty French prisoners were assassinated in this manner by Bavarian troops. The truth of this is vouched for by five men, who actually witnessed the execution. Other men who appeared before the commission declared they had seen the bodies of French prisoners numbering seven men, an infantry corporal and six privates, with their hands tied behind their backs, dead from rifle shots. This incident was further supported by evidence taken before the justice of the peace.

NEW PLANS FOR PEACE IN MEXICO

WILSON WILL ASK CO-OPERATION OF SOUTH AMERICAN LATIN COUNTRIES TO PACIFY WAR TORN NATION.

CONFER ON THURSDAY

Envoys of Six Republics Will Meet at White House to Go Over Plan Suggested.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, August 3.—Announcement that the United States has asked the co-operation of South and Central America in an effort to settle the Mexican difficulty, caused widespread interest today in official and diplomatic circles. A conference on the subject will be held here Thursday afternoon between Secretary Lansing and diplomatic representatives of six of the leading Latin American nations.

When the three South American ambassadors and the three ranking Latin American ministers meet with Secretary Lansing Thursday, the President Wilson's plan to ask co-operation of their country to restoring peace to Mexico, a course of action will be outlined with which all Latin Americans will be asked to approve.

It contemplates the restoration of constitutional government without the use of force, if possible, but has in view joint action of all Americas if necessary. Although all officials surround the conference with greatest secrecy, Secretary Lansing said today that possibly no announcement might be made until it is known that one of the first elements is an embargo on arms from all Latin America to Mexico, Central and South America, and Cuba as well, will be asked to close their ports to war material which provided the means for factional leadership in Mexico to continue their campaigns.

The president is not committed to details of any plan, but will invite suggestions from the diplomats to open the way to common ground.

Announcement of a conference surprised agents of Mexican factions. Carranza's agents, hopeful that his course within the last few weeks and his effort to respond to the demand of this government to leave Mexico City would lead to ultimate recognition, confessed their mystification. They did not attempt to conceal some misgivings, but are hopeful that Carranza's showing of strength in Mexico will force the conviction that his provisional government demands recognition.

Secretary Lansing announced representation has been made to General Villa against confiscating property of Americans and mining interests in Chihuahua. Villa has replied there has been no confiscation and property has been paid for.

a month and killed Floyd Wilson, a deputy marshal, when Wilson attempted to arrest him. Starr then escaped to the Osage hills in northern Oklahoma.

With others Starr in January, 1933, shot up the town of Chouteau, Oklahoma, robbing two general stores and the depot. A few days later the gang cleared out the general store and the depot at Inola, Oklahoma. Starr attended most of the country dances that winter, volunteers standing outside while he danced, and courted a young woman of the neighborhood. Starr's friends urged him to quit the country. To enable him to do so he and Frank Chaney rode into Chaney, Kansas, March 26, 1933, and robbed the Chaney Valley National bank of $4,900. This was his first bank robbery. The notoriety he got out of it brought many men to his standard. By April, he was the recognized leader of a desperate gang of outlaws.

May 5, 1932, they held up a Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train at Pryor Creek, getting $8,000 and a consignment of cut diamonds. Their next exploit was to ride into Arkansas and rob a Bentonville bank of $11,500, June 6, 1933. It was this robbery that ultimately won Starr the name of "Pal of Henry Starr," bandit, from becoming Henry Starr, good citizen. Soon after the Bentonville robbery the band dispersed.

Starr was taken back to the Osage country, where he met by appointment his sweetheart, Miss Mary Morrison, of Nowata. In a covered wagon, with a bodyguard of the deputy sheriff, Starr and his friends were to be taken to a train for California, marry and forever remain away from Oklahoma. At Colorado Springs they were overtaken by detectives. Starr was taken back to the Osage country, where he met by appointment his sweetheart, Miss Mary Morrison, of Nowata. In a covered wagon, with a bodyguard of the deputy sheriff, Starr and his friends were to be taken to a train for California, marry and forever remain away from Oklahoma. At Colorado Springs they were overtaken by detectives.

While in the Fort Smith jail awaiting transfer to a federal prison Starr quailed an outburst from the "Chester Bill," a notorious outlaw by the name of "Pal of Henry Starr," bandit, from becoming Henry Starr, good citizen. Soon after the Bentonville robbery the band dispersed.

Starr was taken back to the Osage country, where he met by appointment his sweetheart, Miss Mary Morrison, of Nowata. In a covered wagon, with a bodyguard of the deputy sheriff, Starr and his friends were to be taken to a train for California, marry and forever remain away from Oklahoma. At Colorado Springs they were overtaken by detectives.

But the state of Arkansas had not forgotten the Bentonville bank robbery. It had an indictment hanging over Starr and when Oklahoma came into the Union, the Arkansas authorities got a requisition for Starr and asked Governor Haskell to honor it. "I didn't know what the Governor might do, so I hid out," said Starr. "I couldn't afford to go over there. They would have handed it to me for life. I went up into the Osage country and hid out. I didn't want to call me by telephone and give me the decision of the Governor. One day he called and I understood him to say that he was granting it, but that he said was: 'He hasn't granted it. And so I fled.'"

"That mistake of one word put me in the brush again. I had to dig in. I had an indictment hanging over Starr and when Oklahoma came into the Union, the Arkansas authorities got a requisition for Starr and asked Governor Haskell to honor it. "I didn't know what the Governor might do, so I hid out," said Starr. "I couldn't afford to go over there. They would have handed it to me for life. I went up into the Osage country and hid out. I didn't want to call me by telephone and give me the decision of the Governor. One day he called and I understood him to say that he was granting it, but that he said was: 'He hasn't granted it. And so I fled.'"

"I went to Wyoming with $10. I had to go under my right name. I hunted work. I worked on the section for $1 a day. I cut glass; I dug ditches; I worked in a furniture store; but every time I got a job some one would catch me, as the 'bad man from Oklahoma' and they kicked me out. I couldn't light any where. I couldn't beat back."

Last June I was out of a job and couldn't find one, so I started for home one night on a freight train. I broke my Colorado parole. I got home June 11, last. I staid around till September and meanwhile banks were robbed in Oklahoma. They blamed them all on me, but I didn't have a hand in them."

It was for his son that the bandit held up the Stroud bank. Starr wanted to make a stake for him," said Starr. "I wanted to make a big haul, fix the boy and go off some where and be forgotten."

The robbery at Stroud was the most daring in the history of Oklahoma. On March 27, 1915, Starr and his men rode into the town, tied their horses to the stock yards fence, left one of their number in charge and proceeded to the two banks. The officials of the two banks were covered with revolvers and $5,000 in currency was taken. As the bandits were escaping Paul Curry, a fifteen-year-old boy, ran into a butcher shop and obtained a short-barreled rifle used for killing hogs. He fired at Starr. The bullet struck the outlaw in the leg, shattering it. As Starr fell, Curry shouted: "Throw away your gun or I'll kill you. Starr did. Louis Estes, one of the gang, was wounded, but with the other escaped. Estes, Claude Sawyer, "Bud" Maxwell and Chas. Johnson later were captured.

"I am a bank robber and have been caught; that's all there is to it," said Starr, following his arrest.

Speed of Waterfowl.

Waterfowl have great powers of flight. The canvasback duck covers from 130 to 160 feet a second. The blue winged teal and the green winged teal, the bluebill and the redheads are only a little slower. Mallards, pintails, wood ducks, black ducks and others can easily fly faster than a mile a minute. Even such large birds as cranes, swans, pelicans and geese can fly at a speed of more than 100 feet a second.

The speed of waterfowl has often been measured with great accuracy. Two men take positions on a duck pass a measured distance apart. The first man carries a stop watch and a gun, the second a gun only. As the fowl pass the first blind the timer shoots in order to frighten the birds into full speed and starts his watch. As the ducks pass the second blind the man there fires a shot, and the timer stops his watch. The usual length of the course is a quarter of a mile, although a mile "track" is sometimes used.—Youth's Companion.

Soap Substitutes in Japan.

Soap is a comparatively recent importation into Japan. However, what the Japanese lacked in substance for loosening the dirt they made up in "elbow grease." Most often they used a powder or flour, among the most common cleansers being the bean, rice and bran. The women of old Japan used a kind of seaweed for shampooing the hair. They gathered it from the rocks and dissolved it in warm water.

SCHULTE GETS BUSY AND CUBS WIN GAME

Chicago Nationals Make It Two Straight Over Phillies By Count 4-1—Sixth Inning Game Away In Ninth.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Chicago, Ill., August 3.—Chicago made it two straight from Philadelphia on Monday, defeating the visitors 4 to 1. All runs scored were earned, but those made by Chicago were the outcome of hitting which was bunched and of the extra base variety. One run was produced by a homer in the fourth by Schulte, who also made a double in the fifth which drove in a run.

Chicago gave the visitors two hits, one each in the first and second innings, but became wild in the sixth and walked two men. Manager Brannen started him again in the seventh but he lost control, and after walking two men was replaced by Lavender. The pass to Becker in the seventh saved the visitors from a shut out as two hits were bunched off Lavender and the lone run scored.

Both clubs fielded well. Schulte, Zimmerman, Good and Williams culled off hits by the visitors, while Becker, Stook and Bancroft kept the local score down.

"Smatter" Sox? New York, August 3.—By a ninth inning rally the New York Americans piled up three runs in their game with Chicago on Monday and turned defeat into victory, winning 3 to 2. Baker, pitching for Chicago, was unable to finish his game, being relieved by Scott. With Chicago leading 2 to 0 in the ninth, Pipp and Cook singled and Mullen, running off Pipp, scored on E. Collins' fumble. Hartzell, batting for Alexander, drove in the tying run with a single. Scott then relieved Pipp and he filled the bases by passing the bat to Mullen. Mullen pitched to High he made a wild pitch, Barney scoring the winning run. Cole, pitching his first New York game of the season, did well, allowing only one earned run in eight innings.

Pitching Eight Years. Washington, August 3.—Walter Johnson Monday celebrated the eighth anniversary of his first appearance with the Nationals by defeating St. Louis 5 to 1, in a game devoid of features.

Kopp, an outfielder obtained by Washington from the St. Thomas, Ontario club, dropped his first chance, an easy fly, afterward making a single and scoring a run.

NO man is safe in saying he'll never switch on his chewing, till he's chewed the Real Tobacco Chew. Everyone knows that some tobaccos are better than others but no one knows how good tobacco really is till he chews "the little chew that satisfies."

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED!!

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

(Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.)

OVER TWO HUNDRED HORSES ENTERED IN RACES AT BIG FAIR

Following List of 187 Racers With More to Be Added Will Be Published Wednesday—Lexington of North.

The Janesville mile and half mile tracks have been termed the Lexington of the North, because of the enormous number of horses that have been entered in the races at the big Janesville fair next week. To date 187 names of horses have been received, this number being published below. J. C. Nichols expressed belief this morning that at least 225 entries will have been received when the final seat before closing time last Saturday night, is looked over.

Without doubt the races this year will attract the attention of the surrounding country, for in the list are the names of prominent horses who have figured in big purses on the more well-known tracks in Wisconsin and other states.

The races are to be called at one-thirty each afternoon, starting promptly at two. John L. Fisher will act as starting judge. The list of entries to date and the owners will be published later.

Secretary Harry Nowlan received enough entries for the big stock exhibit this morning by mail to fill fifty tables. This shows the great interest taken by farmers throughout the country, and it strengthens the belief that the stock exhibit at the Janesville fair this year is to be the best ever held in southern Wisconsin.

Fire engines are kept busy at the grounds daily in trying to pump the excess water away, due to the unceasing rains. The tracks, principally the mile course, is so water-soaked that a rowboat would be the best method for getting around it. This state of affairs is a drawback in giving the horses sufficient workouts and a chance to get in trim for the big schedule ahead.

Tuesday, the opening day, will be Children's Day, with the Moose band of this city furnishing the music. Wednesday is to be Monroe and Broadhead day, with the Monroe band playing. Beloit and Evansville will be honored the third day, the inspiration to be furnished by the Bower City band. Janesville, Edgerton and Whitewater day comes on Friday, the Edgerton band being chartered for that day. Everybody's day will mark the close of the fair on Saturday, and the Military band of Fort Atkinson has been secured to play at that time.

Outfielder Kenneth Williams and Pitcher Frank McHenry, the new Cincinnati players from the northwest, arrived in Brooklyn recently and joined the Reds at the Astoria hotel. Both are fine-looking fellows, way over the average in height and strength, and presented the appearance of being very promising material.

Grover Alexander hopes to pass the mark of 1,000 strikeouts before the end of the season.

MORRIS MILLER

Bill Rodgers has had a short but spicy career as a major leaguer. In less than half a season he has been with three major league clubs and in three different big league contests. He came up from the coast with abundant ambition and enthusiasm, joining the Cleveland Indians at San Antonio, Tex. He played hard all during the training stage and it looked for a while as if he would be fittingly rewarded. He was, but not in the way anticipated. Instead of the job he drew the can. The Red Sox listened to Rodgers' plea and gave him a chance, holding him until Jack Barry came. Then Bill shifted to the Reds. It's gratifying now to read that he is a big hero in Portland.

Bat Nelson is out gunning for Freddie Welsh and the lightweight title. Ever since the proposed bout between the two was stopped by officials at Havana, Bat says he's been on the champion's heels, but says he can get no satisfaction from the belt-holder. "I put myself out $10,000 arranging conditions for that bout," Nelson says. "I think I'm entitled to some consideration. Maybe I can't fight as well as when I knocked out Gans in 1908, but I'm sure I can beat Welsh quicker than any other lightweight."

Fritz Maisel, hitting .300, has made the Yankee owners gasp when they remember how close the Farrell regime came to letting Fritz go with the $25,000 offered for Home Run Baker last fall. Though Maisel held the unheard-of record of seventy-five base steals, it looked as if he must go because he simply could not hit the ball past the pitcher's box.

Says the Boston World: "Larry Gilbert, released to Toronto with strings attached, cannot complain that he wasn't given a chance with the Braves. Every club, in both leagues, had a claim in for him when the Boston Nationals won him in a draft from Milwaukee, but with the Braves he had at no time shown anything even approaching the batting prowess he displayed as a Brewer."

It is now generally recognized that Bert Whaling has supplanted Gowdy as the first-string Brave catcher. Of the games the team has won in the past month, Whaling has been behind the bat in almost every instance.

Connie Mack is pretty sure to have a team next season which will be a contender in the race. He is leaving nothing undone to plug up the holes which his determination to rebuild his team created, and he will do it with material which will cost but little to coral, players who will not expect star salaries from the outset of their careers. Mack, however, is not figuring on having Frank Baker come back with him. The home-run hero still has another year of his contract with the Athletics to serve, and this will prevent him from accepting any sort of a proposition which may come to him from the Reds. Mack is not apt to sell Baker to any of the major league clubs at this time, either, preferring to let Baker stay out of the fold during the term of his contract. It is not revealing a secret when it is said that Mack has had several offers for Baker. Comiskey and the New York Americans both are willing to pay a stiff figure for the "Orange" athlete, but Mack has refused to lend an ear to any proposition involving Baker.

Optimistic Thought. Feelings come and go like light troops following the victory of the present, but principles, like troops of the line, are undisturbed and stand fast.

COOMBS AND WOOD COMEBACKS OF 1915

During the present baseball season there have been two notable cases of stars of years ago coming to their own again. Jack Coombs, formerly of the Athletics, is now pitching winning ball for Brooklyn, and Joe Wood of the Boston Americans is pitching with the same effectiveness he did in 1912, after having experienced two poor seasons.

THE FUTILITY OF SOME FIGURES.

"Has Kansas's wealth been multiplied by seven-and-one-half in ten years? Has West Virginia's quadrupled, and more? California's, we may freely admit, has doubled; but has Washington's quadrupled? Is Ohio 28 per cent richer than Pennsylvania, in spite of Pennsylvania's 61 per cent extra population? In fact, has Ohio gained 235 per cent in the last ten years, after increasing only 30 per cent in the twenty-two previous years?" says Leslie's.

"All these things are so, if we may believe the figures lately issued by the United States census office in a bulletin entitled 'Wealth, Debt and Taxation.' True, mention is made of 'different methods of assessing personal property,' but personal property represents only one-sixth the total property value. No warning note points to constantly varying methods of assessing real estate—to the use in some localities of increasing percentage on estimated values. New York City's scheme of forcing assessments to the highest possible notch, in order to increase the 'debt limit,' has no place in the argument.

"Why are such figures compiled? Why, being compiled, are they issued to an expectant world, to the entrapping of the unwary and the despair of the sophisticated?

"If they are comparative, what is their meaning? What possible informative purpose have they, commensurate with the cost and effort of compiling them and the dignity of the government presenting them?

"We are told that the assessed valuation of Kansas is $1,629,61 per capita. Perhaps it is. It is comforting to think so. The old question, 'What's the matter with Kansas?' seems to be out of date. The line between the average Nebraskan to be blessed with only $375.77 of this world's goods. Are Kansans 4.34 times as prosperous as their neighboring farmers? Are they 42 per cent more opulent than New Yorkers? Do the towering palaces of big business in a great city count for naught, in the scheme of wealth, as against the broad prairie?

"After Kansas, the state of Massachusetts comes second, then Ohio, Oregon, New York, Wyoming, California, Rhode Island, Nevada, District of Columbia. Some of our jumps are clear across the continent, then back again. But that is no feat for the man who can compile such glorious census figures. He doesn't explain why New Hampshire has $1,007 per man, woman and child, while the two states in closest touch with New Hampshire have only $550 (Maine) and $615 (Vermont) per head. Why should he? That isn't what our great and good Uncle Sam pays him for. He's to compile only; the rest of us may deduce—what we can. Hundreds of dollars may be spent in accumulating figures of no value to anybody, while the great vital facts of a business lie buried in the garbled mass. And it isn't another case of 'figures won't lie, but liars will figure,' for the figures are generally truthfully obtained. And they are usually accurate, too, within certain limits. But they are not accurately interpreted."

THE RATE CASE.

The Wisconsin legislature has defeated the bill which had for its object the raising of the present passenger rate. It was expected this would be the fate of the measure when it was introduced, but it was a move in the right direction. If we believed every red-mouthed agitator who seeks political capital by denouncing the shipping interests, seeks to tear down the merchant marine of the country and confiscate the property of the railroads we would be told it was all right.

An eastern exchange in commenting upon the eastern rate case has the following to say, part of which applies to the situation in the middle west in which we are most interested. "What an unenviable position the Interstate Commerce Commission would occupy today if the European war had not opened to it a quick and easy escape from the consequences of its original decision in the eastern rate case is strikingly shown in some of the commissions own recent decisions. With a single important exception, all of the proposals which the commission then told the railroads they should use to support their falling revenues instead of a general rate increase have been tried and have broken down.

"The commission told the railroads their passenger business was losing money and that the states would be sweetly reasonable about their two-cent fare laws. It allowed them to charge higher interstate passenger rates, but not a state budged.

"Through reform of their relations with industrial railways the carriers were told they could realize $15,000,000 a year; from the imposition of charges for 'spotting' cars and for 'trap car' service other millions; and from the overhauling of their terminal regulations and charges, another pretty penny.

"During the fall and winter the carriers filed new tariffs on all these subjects. These were suspended pending investigation, and now the commission has ordered every one of them withdrawn.

"All of these expedients were resorted to by the railroads because the second decision, in December last, allowed the five per cent advances on only about half the traffic, producing only $25,000,000 or $30,000,000 out of the $50,000,000 the carriers had attempted to get; and because Commissioner Harlan, who has thrust more spokes through the railroad wheels than any other one commissioner, declared they needed more than the $50,000,000.

"In turn the efforts to conform to suggestion were quashed by the commission because the proposed new schedules were not framed to its liking. Perhaps they should have been. But the railroads warned Commissioner Harlan in the case that any attempt to change practices which had grown up through eighty years of railroad industrial development, which were so intimately and delicately related to the price and value of the service, would take years to accomplish. It has already taken a year, and the first attempt has failed. The judgment of railroad officers is vindicated. But meanwhile the owners of these roads have obtained only half the additional annual revenue that so stalwart a regular as Commissioner Harlan concedes they are entitled to in common justice.

WHITTET'S POSITION.

Upon Speaker L. C. Whittet, one of Rock county representatives in the assembly, depends largely the success of the efforts of the administration to cut down the appropriations which are more than sufficient for the needs of the various branches of the government. He is working in behalf of the tax payers of the entire state. He is ably seconded by such men as Winegar of Beloit, Herrington of Walworth, Everett, Kubasta and a dozen other loyal workers, who are seeking to bring order out of chaos and following the Governor's idea, give Wisconsin a good, businesslike administration. It is difficult position but Whittet fills it most admirably, and if successful he must be given credit for his labors.

HANGING FIRE.

The state senate has entered into a "gentlemen's" agreement that no legislation of any importance will be handled until Wednesday when the bulk of the members return. Note the word bulk for this is the most expressive of the density of the men who are opposing all efforts towards reduction of state taxes by handicapping the efforts of the administration to cut down appropriations. The business of the legislature is hanging fire. It will continue to do so as long as the ultra progressive "Tax-eters" can find any excuse for prolonging the session for political purposes.

RAINY RAIN! RAIN!

It is to be hoped that Jupiter Pluvius will have exhausted his immediate supply of rain by next week and that the days set aside for the Janesville Fair will be noted for their warmth and lack of moisture. Already plans are on foot to make Friday—Janesville Day—a half holiday in the city, and it is expected that the merchants will co-operate to close their stores for the afternoon on the thirteenth in order to give all an opportunity of visiting the "greatest educational exhibit ever displayed in Rock county," as the press agent describes the coming pumpkin show.

That idea of constructing a few arks would not go amiss as a suggestion to motor car manufacturers. The number of cars that were abandoned to their fate after the rain of Sunday showed something was lacking as to navigation.

CALL OF THE WOODS HAS LOST ITS CHARM TO THE WORKING MEN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 3.—The call of the woods has lost its charm for the laborers in and around Milwaukee. Employment agencies declare the low wages paid by the lumber camps in the northern portion of the state have taken all the romance out of the lumbering game. Calls have come in from several of the camps, but $14 per month and board doesn't look good to even the cheapest labor here.

MINER BEST SOLDIER, SAYS BRITISH OFFICER ON RETURN FROM WAR
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Manchester, England, Aug. 3.—From a Manchester officer who has been in France since the beginning of the war, serving with the British staff, the Manchester Guardian has gleaned some interesting views as to the character of the different varieties of British soldier in the test of war.
In the opinion of the officer, the best soldier is the ex-miner. He prefers the miner "because he is strong in the back and used to dangers and explosions; because he can endure cramped positions in the trenches; because his ears are quick, because he is curious about sounds, because he is intelligent. The miner puts two and two together much more quickly than any other class of men."

"Ghosts"

The fact that this picture was made by the producer of "The Birth of a Nation" guarantees its supreme quality. D. W. Griffith found it an excellent medium for the expression of his artistic genius. And Henry B. Walthall, who has won such renown through his work in "The Birth of a Nation," is said by some critics to have done even better work in "Ghosts," in which he takes the part of Alving and Oswald his son. Thomas Jefferson plays the part of Johanna's husband. The play, you know, is one giving players and director full opportunity to distinguish themselves. It is one of Henrik Ibsen's greatest works, a play of the most tense dramatic interest, and one that will linger in your memory. If you enjoy the better things in photoplays, see it.

NEW FACTS LEARNED

OF JAMES RENAKER; MAKES GUILTY PLEA

Prisoner Examined by Two Physicians at Jail This Morning—Hugh Waggoner Sent to Asylum.

James Renaker, the drug addict, was arraigned in the municipal court yesterday afternoon on the charge of attempting to pass a forged check, the complaint being made by District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie. Renaker's body was trembling as he stood before the justice bench but his mind apparently clear. He waived the right to a preliminary examination and pleaded guilty, admitting that he tried to utter the false check and that he wrote the false paper.

Because of the mysterious connections with the case, it was decided that the sentencing of the prisoner would be deferred until a further investigation could be made of Renaker's record and two physicians, Drs. S. E. Buckmaster and Fred Welsh, were appointed by the court to examine the man. Renaker was committed to the county jail in default of $300 bail and had there been any indication that the prisoner could be furnished bail, this amount would undoubtedly have been raised or liberty denied the man on the basis of his deplorable condition.

Examined at Jail. This morning the two physicians examined Renaker and their united decision was that his condition was most serious, the habit being in an advanced stage. The sight of him is most depressing for while he has a well built body, bright features, when in normal conditions, he is helpless when in want of morphine or cocaine. Since he has been in custody of the police he has been for more morphine and three times a day has had the physicians' attention, paying for the treatment from his own money. Renaker told the examining physicians that he had been used to three grains of morphine a day, and from three to four doses a day, making twelve grains a day. His story of acquiring the habit is that a physician had given him morphine when he was a victim of a gun accident and a discharge. The doctor giving him morphine to prevent pain, soon had the young man in the habit of the present results.

When being questioned by the physicians with his blanched face, his body shook, every muscle being in an abnormal state. His eyes protruded from his head and his continual pleas were sent somewhere to be given treatment.

The doctors stated that they did not think the man was mentally insane and would appear normal if given his usual amount of the morphine or cocaine. Being deprived of the "snow" or drug, he exhibited many signs of insanity.

Wanted in Madison. Chief Champion was able to clear up some of the mystery surrounding the number of letters and lodge receipts found on Renaker when an inquiry was made to the Madison Chief of Police Thomas O. Shames. It was learned that Renaker stole the greater part of the material from the office of William Swenson. Swenson, evidently never missed the papers, letter and Elk pin until informed of their recovery by the Janesville police.

It is now the firm belief of the police here that Renaker devised the means of forging checks, while in a brilliant dream that follows the intake of morphine, and he wrote letters to himself on the various brands of stationery, mailing them to another town, for the purpose of making a good appearance when he arrived there. The Madison chief of police took exception to the plan that Renaker alias Swenson was wanted in Madison and if the Janesville authorities did not care to prosecute to turn the man over to the police here, he was wanted there for forgery and the theft of the Swenson property.

He will be held at the county jail until the physicians report their findings to the municipal court, probably this afternoon. The case will come to the court docket for a week from today. It is thought however, the court will dispose of the case before then, as Renaker's condition is such to demand treatment at a state institution.

Sent to Asylum. One other example of the effect of the Federal Harrison drug law came under the police's experience during the last five days and this morning, Hugh Waggoner was taken to the Mendota state asylum as a voluntary patient, a victim of the drug habit.

On Friday last Waggoner came to the police station in a most serious condition from the want of cocaine or morphine and his case was taken up by Police Master Anderson and Chief Champion. Waggoner had pleaded with several physicians for an injection of drugs and it was feared that in what condition he might become dangerous.

Yesterday Waggoner signed a petition that he wished to be committed to the state asylum and two physicians of this city signed the document to the effect that Waggoner was in need of drugs which caused his mental depression and was in need of treatment. In June when the Sherer drug store was robbed of a quantity of narcotics the suspicion was placed on Waggoner, because of his disappearance the next morning. On his return and being taken to the station while the petition was pending, he was questioned by Chief Champion about the Sherer robbery but Waggoner, with his customary skill, evaded revealing information about the burglary.

GILBERT OLSON DRAWS YEAR'S SUSPENDED TERM UNDER CONTROL BOARD

Gilbert Olson of this city was placed under the State Board of Control for a period of one year, which sentence was deferred by Judge Maxfield in the municipal court this morning. Olson came once too often before the bench of the court to plead guilty in a case in which his first offense was added to a state's prison offense. Olson pleaded guilty, waived his examination and received the sentence in a most unbecoming manner. Lester Weeks of West Virginia pleaded guilty of intoxication and was given seven days in default of a five dollar fine. William Lannigan also drew seven days on the same charge.

Identifying Aeroplanes.

At the height of 2,000 feet all aeroplanes look very much alike, and troops would be liable to fire at their own machines when they passed overhead were they not all decorated with an emblem to proclaim their nationality.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—They Didn't Figure On Father's Capacity

BY F. LEIPZIGER

The Ball of Fire

By George Randolph Chester and Lillian Chester

Illustrated by C. D. Rhodes

(Copyright, 1914, by the Red Book Corporation)

In the park, Allison stopped at the little outlook house where they had climbed on that snowy night, and they stood there, with the stars above, the trees below, and the twinkling lights stretching out to the horizon, all alone above the world of civilization. Below sounded the clang of street cars, and far off to the left, high in the air, there gleamed the lights of a curving train. That was a part of Allison's world which he had long since conquered, a part which he already held in the hollow of his hand; and the fact that every moving thing which clung upon a track in all this vast panorama was under his dominion, served only to illustrate and make plain the marvel of the accomplishment which was now under way. Beyond that dim horizon lay another and still another, and in them all, wherever things moved or were transported, the lift of Allison's finger was to start and stop the wheels, to the most confines of the earth! Oh, it was wonderful; wonderful! And she was part of it! It was there that he proposed to her. It did not surprise her. She had known it when they had entered the park, and that this was the place. He told her that all this empire was being builded to lay at her feet, that she was the empress of it and he the emperor, but that their joy was to be not in the sway, not in the scepter and crown, but in the doing, and in the having done, and in the conceiving and having conceived.

Was this a cold painting of pomp and glory and advantage and reward? He added to it the fire of a lover, and to that the force and mastery and compulsion of his dynamic power. She felt again the potent thrill of him, and the night and sweep and drive of him, and with the hot, tumbling words of love in her ears, and her senses a-reel, and her mind in its whirling exultation, she felt between them a sympathy and a union which it was not in human strength to deny! Something held her back, something made her withhold the word of promise, on the plea that she must have more time to think, to consider, to straighten out the tangle of her mind; but she suffered him to sweep her in his arms, and rain hot kisses upon her face, and to tell her, over and over and over, that she belonged to him, forever and forever!

CHAPTER XXII.

ALLISON'S Private and Particular Devil. The free and entirely uncurbed enjoyed an unusual treat. It had a sensation which did not need to be supported by a hectic imagination or a lurid vocabulary. Vedder court had been condemned for the use of the Municipal Transportation company! A new eight-track, double-deck tube was to be constructed through Crescent Island to the mainland!

Grand climax! Through this tube and into Vedder court, at the platform of the surface and L and subway cars, were to come the passenger trains of the new Atlantic-Pacific railroad, a line three hundred miles shorter than any now stretching between Broadway and the Golden Gate! Any reader of the daily press, of whom there are several, knows precisely what the free and entirely uncurbed did with this bit of stupendous information. The glittering details began on the first page, turned on the second, continued on the fourth, jumped over to the seventh, and finished back among the real estate ads. It began early in the morning and it continued until late at night, fresh details piling upon each other in mad profusion, their importance limited only by the restrictions of type!

Extra! The trick by which the A.P. ran through the mountains over the inland Pacific track!

Extra, extra! The compulsion by which the Midcontinent was brought to complete the big gap in the new A.P. system!

Tremendous extra! The contracts of freightage, subject strictly to the interstate commerce law, between A.P. and the cereal trust, the metal trust, the fuel trust, the cloth trust, and all the other iniquitous combinations in restraint of everything! Wow! Zowie! That was the hot one! The A.P. was the main stem, and within thirteen seconds of the appearance on the streets of the tremendous extra, every other fragile branchlet of a railroad not under the immediate protection of the A.P. was reduced to a shivvel, and its stocks began to drop with the sickening plunge of an unopened parachute!

Gail Sargent kept Nanette on the rush for extras from the first yell on the streets, and she read every word, including the underlines on the miscellaneous portraits of Allison and the funny plines which invariably occurred in the middle of the most interesting sentences.

It was true, all true! Here was the first step in Allison's tremendous project an accomplished fact. The rest of it would be gradually revealed, from day to day, as suited his needs, and the empire he had planned would spread, until its circle touched, and overlapped, and broke into an intricate webbing, over all the land and water of the earth! And she was to be the empress!

Was she? Through all the night she had battled that question, and the battle had left traces of darkness around her luminous eyes.

Late in the afternoon Jim Sargent came home, drawn, fagged, and with hollows under his eyes. He had a violent headache, and he looked ten years older. He walked slowly into the library where Mrs. Sargent and Mrs. Davies and Gail were discussing the future of Vedder court, and dropped into a chair.

Grace Sargent rang a bell instantly. When Jim felt that way, he needed a hot drink first of all.

"What is the matter?" she asked him, the creases of worry flashing into her brow.

"It's been a hard day," he explained, forcing himself, with an effort, to answer. Years of persistent experience had taught him to follow the line of least resistance. "There has been a panic on 'change. Railroads are going to smash all up and down the line. Allison's new A.P. road. It's the star piracy of the century. Allison has brought into the railroad game the same rough-shod methods he used in his traction manipulations."

"Has your company been hurt, Jim?" asked his wife, fully prepared for the worst, and making up her mind to bear up bravely under it.

"Not yet," replied Sargent, and he passed his hand over his brow. He was already making a tremendous effort to brace himself for tomorrow's ordeal. "I escaped today by an accident. By some mistake the Towando Valley was mentioned as belonging to the new A.P. combination. Of course I didn't correct it, but tomorrow they'll know."

"Mr. Allison was responsible for that statement," Gail serenely informed her uncle. "He promised he'd take care of you."

"Great guns!" exploded her uncle. "What did you know about this thing?"

"All of it," smiled Gail. She had known that Allison would keep his word, but it gave her a strange sense of relief that he had done so.

Her Aunt Helen turned to her with a commanding eye; but Gail merely dimpled.

"Of course I couldn't say anything," went on Gail. "It was all in confidence. Isn't it glorious, Uncle Jim?"

"You wouldn't have thought so if you'd been down town today," responded her uncle, trying again to erase from his brow the damage which had been done to his nerves. "They wanted to mob Allison! He has cut the ground from under the entire railroad business of the United States! Their stocks have deflated an aggregate of billions of dollars, and the slump is permanent! He has bankrupted a host of men, rifled the pockets of a million poor investors; he has demoralized the entire transportation commerce of the United States; and he gave no one the show of a rat in a trap!"

"Isn't that business?" asked Gail, the red spots beginning to come into her cheeks.

"Not quite!" snapped her Uncle Jim. "Fiction has made that the universal idea, but there are decent men in business. The majority of them are, even in railroading. Most roads are organized and conducted for the sole purpose of carrying freight and passengers at a profit for the stockholders, and spectacular stock jobbing deals are the exception rather than the rule."

"Has Mr. Allison been more unfair than others who have made big consolidations?" demanded Gail, again aware of the severely inquiring eye of Aunt Helen.

"Rotten!" replied her uncle, with an emphasis in which there was much of personal feeling. "He has taken tricky advantage of every unprotected loophole. He won from the inland Pacific, at the mere cost of trackage, a passage which the inland built through the mountains by brilliant engineering and at an almost countless cost."

"Isn't that accounted clever?" asked Gail.

"So is the work of a confidence man or a wire-tapper!" was the retort. "But they are sent to jail just the same. The inland created something. It built, with brains and money and force, and sincere commercial enterprise, a line which won it a well-earned supremacy of the Pacific trade. It was entitled to keep it; yet Allison, by making with it a tricky contract for the restricted use of the key to its supremacy, uses that very device to destroy it. He has bankrupted, or will have done so, a two thousand mile railroad system, which is of tremendous commercial value to the country, in order to use a hundred miles of its track and remove it from competition! Allison has created nothing. He has only seized, by stealth, what others have created. He is not even a commercial highwayman. He is a commercial pickpocket!"

Gail had paled by now.

"Tell me one thing," she demanded. "Wouldn't any of the railroad men have employed this trick if they had been shrewd enough to think of it?"

"A lot of them," was the admission, after an awkward pause. "Does that make it morally and ethically correct?"

"You may be prejudiced, Jim," interposed Aunt Helen, moving closer to Gail. "If they are all playing the game that way, I don't see why Mr. Allison shouldn't receive applause for clever play."

"You bet I'm prejudiced!" snarled Sargent, overcoming his weariness and pacing up and down the library floor. "He came near playing my road the same trick he did the inland Pacific. He secured control of the L. & C. because it has a twenty-year contract for passage over fifty miles of our track. He'd throw the rest of our line away like a peanut hull, if he had not promised Gail to protect me. I'm an object of charity!"

"Oh!" it was a scarcely audible cry of pain. Aunt Helen moved closer, and patted her hand. Gail did not notice the action.

"Why did he make you that promise, Gail?" demanded her uncle, turning on her suddenly, with a physical motion so much like her father's that she was startled.

"He wants me to marry him," faltered Gail.

Aunt Grace sat down by the other side of Gail.

"Have you accepted him, dear?" she asked.

There was a lump in Gail's throat. She could not answer!

"She'll never marry him with my consent!" stormed her Uncle Jim. "Nor with Miles! The fellow's an unscrupulous scoundrel! He's made of cruelty from his toes to his hair! He stops at nothing! He even robbed Market Square church of six million dollars!"

Gail's head suddenly went up in startled inquiry. She wanted still to defend Allison; but she dreaded what was to come.

"We wouldn't sell him Vedder court at his price; so he took it from us at six million less than he originally offered. He did that by a trick, too."

All three women looked up at him in breathless interest.

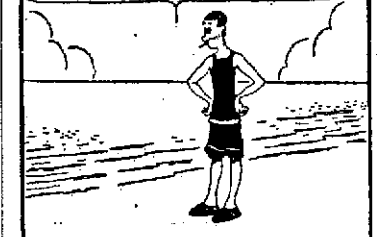

"He had the city condemn Vedder court," went on Sargent. "If he had condemned it outright for the Municipal Transportation company, he would have had to pay us about the amount of his original offer; but his own private and particular devil put the idea into his head that the Vedder court tenements should be torn down anyhow, for the good of the public! So he had the buildings condemned first, destroying six million dollars' worth of value; then he had the ground condemned! Tim Gorman probably got about a million dollars for that humanitarian job!"

A wild fit of sobbing started them all.

Dinner Stories

"I've been a good boy today, haven't I, mamma?" asked the pride of the household.

"Yes, Richard. You've been a very good boy, indeed."

Aren't you going to call papa up on the phone and tell him about it?" "Why no; I hadn't thought of it," replied his mother. "Don't you think it will be time enough to tell him when he comes home?"

"Well," said the youngster, "he might want to buy some candy or something for being good, and I thought we might save him the trouble of going out for it after he gets in the house."

There is a very stern Philadelphia woman who demands instant and unquestioning obedience from her children. One afternoon a storm came up and she sent her little son John to close the trap leading to the flat roof of the house.

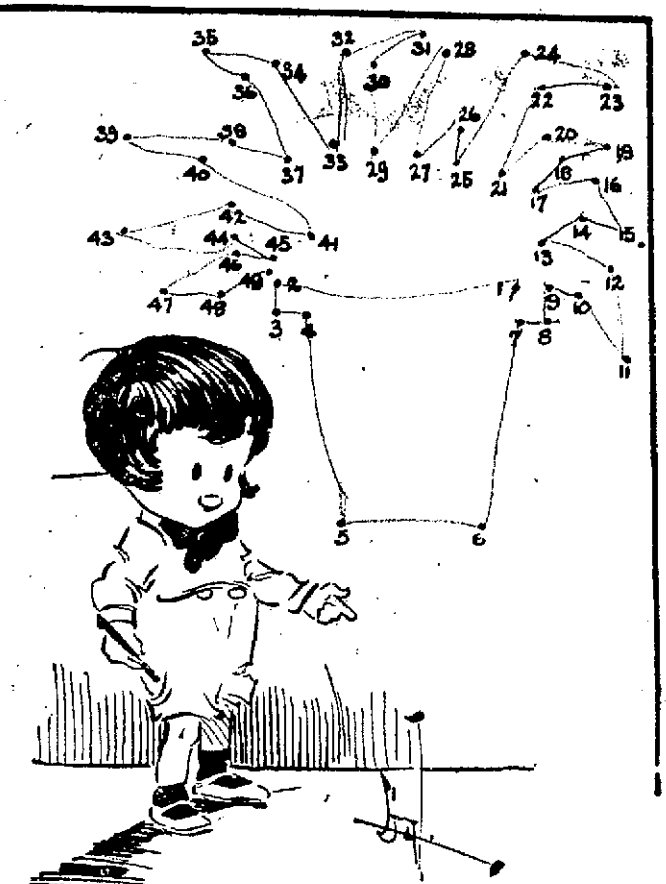

"But, mother—" began John. "John, I told you to shut the trap!"

"Yes, but mother—" "John, shut the trap!"

"All right, mother, if you say so—but—" "John."

Whereupon John slowly climbed the stairs and shut the trap. The afternoon went by and the storm howled and raged. Two hours later the family gathered for dinner, and when the meal was half over Aunt Mary, who was staying with the mother, had not appeared. The mother started an investigation, but she did not have to ask many questions. John answered the first one.

"Mother, she is on the roof."

JANESVILLE GIRL MAY BE A VICTIM OF THE EASTLAND

Miss Louise Luebke Missing and Friends Think She Went to Death in Chicago River.

The whereabouts of Miss Louise Luebke, aged twenty-two, daughter of Frederick B. Luebke, a carpenter living at 412 South Academy street, is a mystery both to relatives and many friends in the city. Speculation is that she lost her life in the Chicago river a week ago Saturday when the steamer Eastland turned turtle, although no available information at hand to date substantiates the fact nor the supposition.

Miss Luebke left Janesville two weeks ago Thursday to visit her sister, Mrs. Day, at 414 Vincennes avenue, Chicago. Every day following her departure from here and until the catastrophe local friends have had mail from her. Coincidentally with the accident cards and letters from her ceased.

Inquiry of friends at the South Academy street home are said to have been fruitless, with the parents claiming to know nothing of her whereabouts. When Luebke's sister told her employer, Niemoor Chikory, a confidant store proprietor at 116 East Milwaukee street, she would return following her vacation of two weeks.

Friends here became alarmed following the receipt of no mail since a week ago Saturday. Revised death lists of the Eastland's victims were scanned and it was reported that the girl's name appeared. This has led to the belief that she went down with the steamer, but according to the latest list of a Chicago paper on Saturday, Miss Luebke's name does not appear.

Friends are striving to start an investigation to determine if the girl is really missing from the home of her sister in Chicago. They contend that some other hurt might have befallen her. The young lady has many acquaintances in the city anxious to learn something of her plight.

A Parallel Case. According to friends which have been rife in this city throughout the past week, Robert McGinley of Beloit, a former Janesville boy, is also missing from his home in the Lake City. It is said that McGinley who is about twenty-one or twenty-two years of age, left for Chicago several days before the river accident and that previous to going had told Beloit friends he planned to go on the excursion with the Western Electric employees.

No information of his presence has been forthcoming from Beloit. It has been ascertained here that McGinley appeared in the list of dead, but investigation of the report published Saturday contained no name of a McGinley victim.

Both the Luebke and the McGinley cases are peculiar as nobody can be found who can verify the facts. It is possible that neither of the young people lost their lives, but have just been delinquent in corresponding with relatives and friends.

WHAT WILL MILWAUKEE DO WITHOUT CABARETS AND MUSIC IN SALOONS?

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Milwaukee, August 3.—What will Milwaukee be when all the saloons abandon cabaret and music features? The man on the music with your beer, which for years has attracted thousands to Milwaukee's gardens, will be clamped on immediately and a loud wail of protest has gone up not only from the saloonkeepers but from the conservative old German residents.

Under the newly enacted Stempel law, the city authorities are empowered to close every saloon that offers even a male quartette or a winsome blonde soloist as an attraction. As the saloons make applications for the renewal of licenses, they will be forced to abandon the enterprise except that of selling liquor.

In a score of beer gardens in nearly every section of Milwaukee, families gather in the quiet of the summer evenings, quaffing a foaming mug of beer, talking and listening to the music. It is a practice that has been in vogue since the earliest days of the city's history. If the music goes, the life will be taken out of these evening reunions.

The smaller saloon with a tiny palm garden in the rear and a singer who "doubles on the piano" will be the hardest hit. With the entertainment taken away, the owners of the smaller places declare their business will be ruined and they will be forced out of business.

WEAR YELLOW CLOTHES AND YELLOW TATTOOS TO ESCAPE MOSQUITOS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Madison, Aug. 3.—Do the mosquitoes bother you? Here is a sure cure for the pest. Wear clothes of a bright yellow hue and don't talk above a whisper. Prof. Shipley of England has studied the mosquito in its haunts the world over. He finds that a cloth of dark blue attracts the insects, but that they despise yellow. So if you wear a yellow shirt or waist the next day will not find you covered with red welts and a desire to claw your hide.

Further experiments by Dr. Shipley showed that the mosquito is attracted by the human voice and whistling. People are talking, they will get over people as interested in the conversation. Dr. Shipley has proved that the female mosquito is responsible for the bites as the male mosquito has never developed a proboscis of sufficient strength to penetrate the human skin.

ESCAPED LIGHTNING YET COW WAS KILLED

Bolt Strikes Barn, Passing to Steel Stanchion, Killing Cow.—Barn Is Burned to Ground.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Monroe, Wis., Aug. 3.—To have the cow which was milking killed by a bolt of lightning, yet to escape without even a serious shock, was the experience of Albert Koepf, a farmer and on the E. W. Reese farm in Spring Grove township. The bolt came during a heavy thunderstorm, striking the barn and passing downward to the steel stanchion in which the cow was fastened, killing the cow instantly. No one has been able to determine how Koepf escaped death also.

There were a number of other cattle in the barn at the time and these were saved by Koepf, who drove them from the burning barn, preventing them from being cremated. The barn, together with tons of hay, was totally destroyed. A granary a short distance from the barn was also destroyed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Munich, Germany, August 3.—Some idea of the enormous quantity of beer manufactured for the use of Bavarian soldiers in the field can be gathered from the figures of the breweries of the first Bavarian Army Corps, just published.

The first contain an average of 2820 gallons per carload, and the second 5560 three-quarter liter bottles. Other breweries deliver fifty carloads of keg beer, 1250 gallons to a car.

SECRETARY OF U. S. ACHOO ASSOCIATION MAKES STATEMENT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] New York, Aug. 3.—P. F. Jerome visited at his office, 125 East 27th street, and asked for an authentic statement concerning the U. S. Hay Fever Association, of which he is secretary, sneezed, called a stenographer, sneezed again, and dictated the following:

Reverend Guy Roberts is the president of the United States Hay Fever Association, which meets in convention September 23 in the White Mountains of New Hampshire. Rev. Roberts is a member of the U. S. Hay Fever Association, of which he is secretary, sneezed, called a stenographer, sneezed again, and dictated the following:

While Rev. Roberts is hailed as the "sneezer" of the U. S. Hay Fever Association, he is not a "sneezer." For the first thirty-five years of this popular organization, the office of the president was filled by a sneezer. The present president, E. Delemator of Newport, R. I., who preceded President Roberts, urged the convention to elect a successor who could preside over their deliberations without sneezing. In the old days, it was not unusual to declare a recess until the interrupting sneezers had quieted down.

The oldest sneezer on the records of the Association was Mr. M. Richard Muckle, of Philadelphia, who died during the past year, at the age of ninety, holding the record for sixty-six consecutive years of sneezing. He was president of the association from 1878 to 1883, and did much to make Rechehem famous as a haven of refuge for the hay fever sufferer.

Under the administration of Col. Muckle that the famous "experience meeting" of the annual convention was started. At this session, the secretary read a paper, "The Hay Fever of the Nation," and the delegates applauded their favorites and knock the fakes. Last year a delegate from Philadelphia sent a letter in which he said he had suffered for seventeen years, but since adopting Christian Science he "could take it or leave it alone." A high born delegate said, "A man never sneezes how many times in his head until he gets hay fever and then he wonders where it all comes from. It heats a correspondence school for returns on the investment."

A delegate from Boston, quoted the classic cure suggested by Oliver Wendell Holmes: "six feet of clean gravel, six feet down."

Have a Care. A New Jersey man who has been saying that his head is a block of wood has been sent to an asylum, so be careful what you say, even if your cold does make your head feel like a hub-bard squash.—Boston Globe.
